Mr. Dulles reported briefly with respect to the NSC Senior Staff Meeting yesterday and noted that the paper on port security had been sent back for redrafting. In this connection the DCI commented that the Coast Guard had been doing very constructive probing without any substantial intelligence backing and he thought that CIA's responses to an earlier request for assistance on the part of the Coast Guard may well have been too guarded. The DCI directed [REDACTED] to have Mr. Reber consult with the Coast Guard and arrange for adequate intelligence support.
